

Reconnect your LinkedIn profile to your Learning account

Last updated: 2 months ago

If you created your Learning account without connecting your LinkedIn profile, or if you disconnected your profile at some point (e.g., to troubleshoot login issues), you can reconnect your profile at any time.

You may decide to disconnect your profile from your Learning account for personal reasons, such as privacy, or you may disconnect your profile to test or document the login experience for unbound (or bound) users. If you decide to reconnect your profile to your Learning license, please follow the below instructions.

Important to know

Library learners are currently not able to connect their Learning account to their LinkedIn profile.

Reconnect your LinkedIn profile to your Learning license after disconnecting

- 1 Log into LinkedIn Learning.
- 2 Select Connect my LinkedIn account, and provide the login details for the profile you'd like to connect.

Reconnect your LinkedIn profile to your Learning license after initial login

- 1 Log into LinkedIn Learning.
- 2 Click your photo in the top right corner, and select Settings from the dropdown that appears.
- 3 Below Connect your LinkedIn account to your LinkedIn Learning account provided by your organization, click Connect my account.
- 4 Log into LinkedIn Learning again.
- 5 If you agree to the Terms and Privacy Policy, click Accept and continue.

Here's a tip

You can connect your profile to your Learning account via the Q&A section of a course.

- (1) Log into Learning and navigate to a video.
- (2) Click the Q&A button under the video.
- (3) Select Connect my LinkedIn Account.
