

Ethics & Justice

The Ethics & Justice breadth requirement builds on the living legacy of the Marist Brothers and reflects the strong sense of community found here at the College. Courses in Ethics, Applied Ethics, and Religious Studies provide students with the chance to develop their understanding of philosophical and religious traditions and to engage actively with ethical and spiritual questions.

Please note: (1) A cross-listed course can only satisfy ONE breadth requirement within the Core. For example, REST 214 Religious Themes in Literature can fulfill either the Ethics & Justice or the Literature Breadth requirement, but not both of these; (2) Some special- topics courses might fulfill the Ethics & Justice requirement; (3) Many Religious Studies courses work in particular Pathways as well as fulfilling the Ethics & Justice breadth requirement. See the Pathway course lists on the Marist Core website for more information.
