Veteran's Repertory Theatre

Veterans Repertory Theater aims to reinvigorate American theater through developing and producing the work of veteran writers and artists. Through fully produced plays, staged readings, immersive art shows and multimedia festivals, VetRep delivers to audiences intimate, impactful live performances as whimsical, hilarious, absurdist, and jarring as the veteran community that created them.

More information: <https://vetrep.org/>

Veteran's Repertory Programming

VetRep works to provide opportunities for veterans to weave their stories, music, and art into the fabric of American culture adding color, complexity, and new dimensions to our collective American story. They do this through three main lines of effort:

Playwriting: they assess, develop, and produce talented veteran playwrights

Savage Wonder: They produce a daily literary blog, weekly podcast, regional micro-festivals, and a full-scale festival showcasing veterans in the arts

The Parlor on Quaker Avenue: They provide weekly low-cost professional theater experiences
